Life Sciences Tour Australia

9am to 5pm, Tuesday 24th October 2017

Morning

Health Industries South Australia's Chief Executive, Marco Baccanti, will provide an overview of Australia's advantages for life sciences companies. The session will be held at the iconic South Australian Health and Medical Research Institute.

Lunch

Dining in the idyllic Adelaide Hills, followed by a trip to see some of Australia's unique animals.

Afternoon

Visit to Adelaide's Tonsley Innovation District, a hub for life sciences manufacturing, from medical devices to pharmaceuticals.

It's not all business. Life Sciences Tour Australia is a fantastic chance to get up close to some of Australia's unique animals at Cleland Wildlife Park.

Adelaide, Australia

The ideal city in Asia Pacific

Adelaide has strong support for life sciences companies, including:

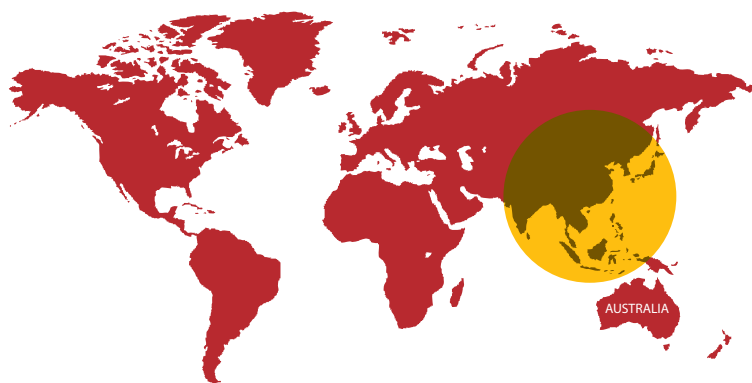

- 43.5% cashback for R&D, including clinical trials.
- An experienced 50-bed Phase 1 clinical trials unit, with 15,000 healthy volunteers.
- Automotive and defence know-how applied to building medical devices.

As an ideal base for Asia-Pacific operations, Adelaide offers companies the ability to manage sales, marketing and distribution, in a convenient time zone, and in a country with a regulatory framework and business culture familiar to companies from other developed Western countries.

Australia has a strong, growing economy with a AAA credit rating and free trade agreements with Japan, Singapore, Malaysia, Korea, Thailand, Indonesia, and China.

Adelaide has been rated as the most cost-competitive city for doing business in Asia Pacific by KPMG on its Competitive Alternatives 2016 index.

More people live inside this circle than outside

Take advantage of Australia's free trade agreements with India, Japan, Korea, Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and China.
